JOE LACOB

Co-Executive Chairman & CEO

In his role as co-executive chairman & CEO, Joe Lacob is the managing member of the Golden State Warriors' ownership group. Beginning his 13th year in this capacity, he serves on the NBA Board of Governors and is a member of the league's Planning Committee and Labor Committee.

Under Lacob's guidance, the Warriors have achieved numerous milestones, established many NBA records and enjoyed one of the most successful decades in the history of the sport. The Warriors have won four NBA championships (2015, 2017, 2018, 2022) in an eight-year span, joining the Boston Celtics, Chicago Bulls and Los Angeles Lakers as the only teams to accomplish this feat, while making six appearances in the NBA Finals over that span. With five consecutive Finals appearances from 2015-19, the Warriors joined the Celtics of the 1950s and 1960s as the only teams ever to do so. The Warriors matched the Celtics for the best-ever record over a six-season span in league history (373-119, .758) and, with three titles in four years, joined the Celtics, Bulls and Lakers as the only NBA franchises to win three championships in four seasons.

In Lacob's fifth season as owner in 2014-15, the Warriors ended a 40-year championship drought (dating back to 1975) and followed that title-winning campaign by posting the best single-season record in NBA history in 2015-16 (73-9). From 2012-13 to 2018-19, the Warriors made seven consecutive playoff appearances, the longest postseason streak in franchise history. In fact, prior to those seven seasons, the club had only made the playoffs once in the previous 18 years.

The franchise's success in recent years has also extended to the business side. In December of 2019, the Warriors were named professional sports'"Franchise of the Decade" by the Sports Business Journal (SBJ), an award that encompasses all 123 teams in the NBA, NFL, MLB and NHL. The award-winning sports business publication also bestowed "Sports Team of the Year" honors to the Warriors in 2014 and 2016 in recognition of the organization's innovative and successful business practices. This marked the first time that any professional team had won this prestigious award more than once (the organization was also a finalist for the award in 2017 and 2018).

Additionally, under Lacob's leadership, the Warriors were named the winner of the Entrepreneurial Company of the Year (ENCORE) Award in 2016 by the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, recognizing the organization's entrepreneurial spirit in redefining sports management, pioneering the use of sports analytics in the NBA and adopting new technologies that have transformed the fan experience. The Warriors became the first sports organization to win the ENCORE Award, which has been presented annually since 1982 and recognizes companies from around the world, including such recent winners as Google (2004), Apple (2005) and Amazon (2010).

In addition to the Warriors' organization-wide honors, Lacob was named the 2016 recipient of the Sports Executive of the Year award by Sports Business Journal. He was also named one of the Bay Area's Most Admired CEOs by the San Francisco Business Times in November of 2015.

Since making a then-record-setting $450-million bid to purchase his hometown NBA club and assuming control of the team on November 12, 2010, Lacob has been the driving force behind many of the creative changes that have transpired with the organization, including several major announcements, prominent personnel additions and an emphasis on transparency. Additionally, since its inception in 2012, the revamped Warriors Community Foundation has awarded over $25 million in impact to the Bay Area, including over $15 million in yearly educational grants to various Bay Area organizations.

In October 2015, the Warriors completed the purchase of 12 acres of land in San Francisco's Mission Bay neighborhood and, in January 2017, broke ground on Chase Center, the team's 100% privately-financed, state-of-the-art sports and entertainment venue. Less than three years later, Chase Center celebrated its ribbon-cutting ceremony on September 3, 2019, and Lacob's vision of opening the doors to the first-ever arena in San Francisco became a reality. The dynamic 18,064-seat arena hosts Warriors basketball, concerts, cultural events, family shows, conventions and other activities, totaling over 150 events a year. Located in the heart of Mission Bay, the 11-acre district features two office buildings, 100,000 square feet of retail, close to 30 unique retail establishments (when complete) and over three acres of publicly accessible plazas and open space. In September of 2020, after one year of operation, Chase Center was named "Sports Facility of the Year" by the Sports Business Journal.

During his first full off-season with the organization (summer of 2011), Lacob recruited two of the most experienced, successful and respected individuals in NBA circles to join the franchise, landing NBA Hall of Famer and basketball icon Jerry West as an executive board member, and hiring longtime league and team executive—and 2018 Hall of Fame inductee—Rick Welts as president and chief operating officer. Additionally, Lacob played a significant role in the hiring of successful sports agent Bob Myers, who is now the club's president of basketball operations/general manager, and Head Coach Steve Kerr. Myers was named NBA Executive of the Year following the Warriors championship seasons of 2014-15 and 2016-17; Kerr was named NBA Coach of the Year following the 2015-16 season.

Lacob's NBA and professional sports experience dates back over two decades, including a five-year tenure as minority investor of the Boston Celtics, where he served on the basketball committee. He earned his first NBA championship ring in 2008 with the Celtics before selling his minority stake to purchase the Warriors.

In 1987, Lacob began his career at Kleiner Perkins Caufield & Byers, based in Menlo Park, Calif. Though still a strategic advisor to the firm, he relinquished his managing partner role in order to pursue his lifelong goal of owning and operating an NBA franchise. In his role as a venture capitalist, he led investments in over 50 start-up companies across multiple fields in life sciences and medical technologies, the internet and energy.

Lacob earned a bachelor's degree in Biological Sciences from the University of California-Irvine, a master's degree in Public Health (Epidemiology) from UCLA and an M.B.A. from the Stanford Graduate School of Business. He credits his master's degree in Epidemiology (biostatistics) with providing him a background in statistics that helped drive his passion for sports. It also played a role in his decision to invest in Sportsline—one of the first sports internet sites—and one of Lacob's earliest sports success stories. He was also a primary investor and pioneer of the American Basketball League, a professional women's basketball league that eventually succumbed to the WNBA. Lacob continues as one of the original partners in the Pebble Beach Company, an effort formed to bring the historic Pebble Beach resort and golf course back to long-term American ownership. Additionally, Lacob has been involved with Stanford basketball for over 30 years and is a fixture in his courtside seats at Maples Pavilion. Lacob currently serves on the Board of Directors of two public companies, Align Technology and NeuroPace, as well as several other privately-held companies.

In recent years, Lacob has been involved in industry organizations including the American Heart Association and the AHA Roundtable. He has also been very active at Stanford University, serving on advisory boards at the medical center, business school and athletic department. Lacob's philanthropic interests focus on education, both in the community and with universities. In 2014, he gifted $1 million to Washington University in St. Louis to establish a new Sports Management program at the Olin Business School. He has also provided scholarships to a number of high potential academic and athletic high school and college students in need, and has funded both a GSB professorship and the building of the Lacob Sports Medicine Center at Stanford.

An avid golfer, Lacob has been a longtime participant in the AT&T National Pro-Am at Pebble Beach. He plays in regular pick-up basketball games at least twice weekly at Stanford, doing so for the last 30 years.

PETER GUBER

Co-Executive Chairman

Peter Guber, a prominent figure in the sports and entertainment industry for more than 35 years, begins his 13th season as owner and co-executive chairman of the Golden State Warriors. Under his leadership since 2010, the Warriors have enjoyed immense success, highlighted by four NBA Championships (2015, 2017, 2018, 2022), six Western Conference titles (2015-2019, 2022) and the recording of the greatest single season record in NBA history (73-9 in 2015-16). Off the court, the Warriors were named "Franchise of the Decade" by the Sports Business Journal (SBJ) in December 2019, an award that encompasses all 123 teams in the NBA, NFL, MLB, and NHL. The award-winning sports business publication also bestowed "Sports Team of the Year" honors to the Warriors in 2014 and 2016 in recognition of the organization's innovative and successful business practices. This marked the first time that any professional team had won this prestigious award more than once (the organization was also a finalist for the award in 2017 and 2018).

In addition to the Warriors, Guber owns a wealth of experience in sports and location-based entertainment. One of his core principles is the importance of enhancing every aspect of the fan experience, from entrance to exit. With that philosophy as a driving force, on January 17, 2017, the Warriors broke ground on Chase Center, the organization's 100% privately financed, state-of-the-art sports and entertainment complex in San Francisco's Mission Bay neighborhood. Less than 32 months later, on September 6, 2019, Chase Center opened its doors, immediately becoming one of the crown jewels around the world, and the first-ever arena in the City of San Francisco. A year after its opening (September 2020), Chase Center was named "Sports Facility of the Year" by the Sports Business Journal.

One of the most successful executives and entrepreneurs in the entertainment and communications industries, Guber's impressive resume includes serving as the chairman & CEO of Sony Entertainment, president of Columbia Pictures, chairman and CEO of Polygram Entertainment and co-owner and co-chairman of Casablanca Record & Filmworks. Among the films he personally produced or executive produced are "Rain Man" (Academy Award – Best Picture), "Batman," "The Color Purple," "Midnight Express," "Gorillas in the Mist," "The Witches of Eastwick," "Missing" and "Flashdance." Guber's personal movies have earned more than $3 billion worldwide, while also garnering more than 50 Academy Award nominations.

Guber is the founder and CEO of Mandalay Entertainment, a visionary multimedia venture spanning movies, TV, sports, and digital media. Mandalay's feature films include "Soul Surfer," "The Kids Are All Right," "Bernie," "Donnie Brasco" and "Sleepy Hollow." Their upcoming theatrical films include "Surrounded" from MGM; "Heart of A Lion" which is the miraculous, emotional story of George Foreman overcoming all odds to reboot his life and regain his title of heavyweight boxing champion of the world at 46 years old; and "Air Jordan" from Amazon and MGM which stars Ben Affleck and Matt Damon and chronicles the sneaker wars involving Michael Jordan. "The Last Dance," a 10-part documentary which focused on Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls' 1997-98 championship run, was produced by Mandalay Sports Entertainment for ESPN, which Guber won the Emmy and the Producers Guild Award for Best Producer. Guber expanded Mandalay into a national entertainment sports provider, and he currently serves as Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Guber, together with Guggenheim Group and Magic Johnson, acquired the Los Angeles Dodgers in May 2012. Under their ownership, the franchise has won a Word Series (2020), captured nine National League West division titles (including eight consecutive from 2013-2020), and made three World Series appearances in a four-year span (2017, 2018, 2020). He joins Jerry Reinsdorf (Bulls, White Sox) as the only current owners to win both an NBA and MLB title.

In October of 2014, Guber became the owner and executive chairman of Major League Soccer's Los Angeles Football Club (LAFC), which made their debut in 2018 in the Banc of California Stadium, the first new open-air stadium built in the city of Los Angeles since Dodger Stadium in 1962. In 2018, LAFC accomplished the best regular season for an MLS expansion team, earning 57 points. The team then earned a record-breaking 72 points in 2019, winning their first major MLS trophy, the Supporter's Shield, and captured the Western Conference title before their season ended in the conference finals. LAFC appeared in the 2020 Concacaf Champions League, an international competition featuring the top clubs from North America, Central America and the Caribbean. LAFC was one of four US teams to qualify for the 16-team tournament.

Guber joins Ted Leonsis, Jeff Vinik and Bruce Karsh as one of four co-executive chairmen of aXiomatic, a broad-based esports and gaming company. The company has a majority stake in Team Liquid, a top esports team in the U.S. and Europe with 60 players competing in 14 games. Team Liquid's collective teams have won the most prize money in the history of esports while amassing trophies across different titles and different countries, including winning the 2017 DOTA 2 International Championships, which boasted the largest purse in esports history. Their League of Legends team has won four LCS titles, and their Counter-Strike Global Offensive team was awarded the Intel Grand Slam prize in 2019, a feat achieved in just four tournaments. aXiomatic also has stakes in esports companies Epic Games, ("Fortnite"), Niantic ("Pokemon GO"), Super League Gaming, Gamer Sensei and Bitkraft.

PETER GUBER

In June 2017, California Governor Jerry Brown appointed Guber to the prestigious position of Regent of the University of California. Additionally, Guber for more than 30 years, is a full professor at UCLA, teaching at the Anderson School of Management and the School of Theater, Film, Television and Digital Media. He is a member of the UCLA Foundation Board of Trustees, as well as the winner of UCLA's prestigious Service Award for his accomplishments in association with the school. Guber is the founding member of the Board of Advisors for the Center for Managing Enterprises in Media, Entertainment & Sports (MEMES) at the UCLA Anderson School of Management.

A noted author, Guber's third book, Tell To Win – Connect, Persuade, and Triumph with the Hidden Power of Story, was published by Crown Business and became an instant #1 New York Times, Amazon, and Wall Street Journal bestseller. The book is in its 18th printing.

Guber was recruited by Columbia Pictures out of NYU's Graduate School of Business, where he was pursuing an MBA. He also holds a BA, Master of Law and Juris Doctorate degrees. He received his honorary doctorate in Fine Arts from the University of Connecticut; was named Albert Gallatin Fellow at New York University; is a recipient of Syracuse University's George Arents Pioneer Award, the highest honor that can be given to an alumnus, for his distinguished work in film. In 2016, Guber was named Businessperson of the Year by the Los Angeles Business Journal.

BOB MYERS

President of Basketball Operations / General Manager

Bob Myers begins his 11th season as general manager of the Golden State Warriors and seventh with the additional title of President of Basketball Operations. In this role, he reports directly to Co-Executive Chairman & CEO Joe Lacob and oversees the entire basketball operations department on a day-to-day basis. Myers was originally named GM on April 24, 2012.

Myers, 47, has assembled a roster that won four NBA titles (2015, 2017, 2018, 2022) in eight seasons and made five consecutive appearances in the NBA Finals (2015-2019). The Warriors (2014-19) tied the Celtics (1980-85) for the most regular season wins (373) in NBA history over a six-season span, including an NBA-record 73 wins in 2015-16. Myers earned the NBA Executive of the Year award in both 2014-15 and 2016-17 and is the only executive in Warriors history to earn Executive of the Year honors multiple times and one of only five in league history to earn the honor twice in a span of three seasons.

During his tenure as general manager the Warriors have enjoyed their most successful stretch in franchise history, posting a .665 regular- season winning percentage (527-266), which is the best record in the NBA over that stretch. The Warriors earned a franchise-record seven-straight trips to the NBA Playoffs (2013-2019), surpassing the previous record of six, set in the NBA's first six-seasons in existence from 1946-47 through 1951-52. The franchise had qualified for the playoffs just once in the previous 18 years.

Throughout Myers' tenure, the Warriors have retained many of their top talents, signing starters Stephen Curry, Draymond Green and Klay Thompson to contract extensions. Myers acquired 2015 NBA Finals MVP Andre Iguodala via trade in 2013 and signed Kevin Durant, the 2017 and 2018 NBA Finals MVP.

Besides acquiring key players, one of Myers' most important decisions was the signing of current Head Coach Steve Kerr on May 19, 2014. Kerr was named the NBA's Coach of Year in 2014-15 and along with his coaching staff, twice coached the Western Conference All-Stars (2015, 2017).

Myers originally joined the Warriors on April 14, 2011, as assistant general manager/vice president of basketball operations, after enjoying a highly successful 14-year stint as a representative to numerous NBA players. During his first year with the Warriors organization, he worked closely under the tutelage of then-General Manager Larry Riley on all Basketball Operations matters, including contract negotiations, talent evaluation, roster management, scouting and CBA compliance.

Before joining the Warriors, Myers spent the previous five years at Wasserman Media Group (WMG) in Los Angeles. As managing executive at WMG, which is one of the largest global sports and entertainment companies in the world, Myers represented a client list of nearly 20 NBA players in their team and endorsement contracts.

Prior to joining Wasserman, Myers served as vice president of SFX Sports, where he represented numerous NBA players. Myers began his career in the sports representation business in 1997 as an intern at Los Angeles-based Tellem and Associates – under the tutelage of long-time sports agent Arn Tellem – which became SFX Sports in 2000. During his 14 years in the business, Myers negotiated over $575 million in contracts.

With a well-earned reputation as one of the top player agents in the NBA, Myers was a recipient of the prestigious "40 under 40" Award in 2011, presented annually by the SportsBusiness Journal to the 40 most influential sports executives under the age of 40.

A Bay Area native, Myers attended Monte Vista High School in Danville, earning two varsity letters with the basketball team and All-League First Team and All-Metro Third Team honors in his senior year. On October 10, 2019, Myers was inducted as a member of its first class Athletic Hall of Fame for 2019.

Myers graduated from UCLA in 1998 with a degree in business/economics. Beginning his collegiate career as a walk-on, Myers earned an athletic scholarship in his sophomore season in 1994-95, the same season the Bruins would capture the 1995 NCAA Championship. Two years later, in Myers' senior season, the Bruins advanced to the 1997 Elite Eight.

A member of the State Bar of California, Myers earned his Juris Doctorate from Loyola Law School in 2002.

He and his wife, Kristen, have three daughters, Kayla, Annabelle and Rosie.

STEVE KERR
Head Coach

Beginning his ninth season as the head coach of the Golden State Warriors, Steve Kerr has guided the club through its most prolific seasons in NBA history with a list of accomplishments that includes four NBA championships (2015, 2017, 2018, 2022), six NBA Finals appearances (including five-straight from 2015-2019), the NBA's single-season wins record (73), an NBA Coach of the Year award (2015-16), and five of the six winningest seasons in franchise history. He owns an overall playoff record of 93-34 (.732), the highest winning percentage among NBA head coaches all-time that have coached a minimum of 25 postseason games.

Named the 2022-24 USA Basketball Men's National Team head coach, Kerr will lead the USA National Team in 2022-24, which will include all USA Men's National Team training camps, and, if the USA qualifies, the 2023 FIBA World Cup that is scheduled to be held in the Philippines, Japan, and Indonesia from Aug. 25-Sept. 10, 2023, and the 2024 Summer Olympic Games that is scheduled for July 26-Aug. 11 in Paris, France. Kerr most recently served as an assistant coach for the 2017-21 USA Basketball Men's National Team and was part of Gregg Popovich's gold medalist coaching staff for the 2020 Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo, Japan, and the 2019 USA National Team that competed in the FIBA World Cup in China. By helping the USA claim gold at the Tokyo Olympics, Kerr became the first USA Basketball National Team coach to also have earned a gold medal as a player in a FIBA senior level competition, having won gold at the 1986 World Cup.

Kerr, who won five NBA championships during a 15-year playing career, now owns nine championships as either a player or coach, becoming the first to win at least three NBA titles as a player and three as a coach. Kerr is just the third coach in NBA history to win three championships in his first four seasons at the helm, joining Phil Jackson (1991, 1992, 1993) and John Kundla (1949, 1950, 1952) as the only coaches to do so.

With Kerr at the helm, the Warriors became the first team in NBA history to win at least 65 games in three consecutive campaigns (67 victories in 2014-15, 73 in 2015-16, and 67 in 2016-17). Golden State's success also extended to the postseason. The Warriors became the fourth franchise to win three-or-more titles in the span of four seasons, joining the Boston Celtics (1959-69), Chicago Bulls (1991-93, 1996-98) and Los Angeles Lakers (1949-54, 1985-88, 2000-02). In the 2017 postseason, Golden State posted a 16-1 (.941) record, the best single-season playoff record in league history that included a playoff-record 15-game win streak.

In 2014-15, Kerr engineered the most successful campaign of any first-year coach in NBA history en route to Golden State's first title in 40 years, posting a then-franchise-record 67 victories and establishing NBA records for most wins and highest winning percentage (67-15, .817) by a first-year head coach. The Warriors saw a 16-game improvement in 2014-15 over the previous season (51-31 in 2013-14), an NBA record for the biggest improvement by a 50-win team in league history. Kerr followed his inaugural campaign by winning the 2015-16 NBA Coach of the Year Award for leading the Warriors to an NBA-record 73 regular-season wins in 2015-16 (73-9, .890), eclipsing the previous mark of 72 set by a Chicago Bulls squad in 1995-96 that featured Kerr in a reserve role. In addition to the single-season wins record, the Warriors set new league marks for single-season road wins (34), consecutive wins to begin a season (24) and consecutive regular-season home wins (54).

Originally named to the position on May 19, 2014, Kerr is the 25th head coach in franchise history and the 20th since the team moved to the West Coast in 1962. He is the fourth Warriors coach to win an NBA title, joining Eddie Gottlieb (1947), George Senesky (1956) and Alvin Attles (1975). He is also just the third coach in franchise history to be named Coach of the Year, joining Alex Hannum (1963-64) and Don Nelson (1991-92). Twice Kerr and his coaching staff were named to coach the Western Conference All-Star Team (2015, 2017).

Kerr owns 34 years of NBA experience as a player (15), coach (eight), television analyst (eight) and front office executive (three). As president of basketball operations and general manager of the Phoenix Suns (2007-10), the club posted a 155-91 (.630) record and earned a pair of playoff berths, including a trip to the 2010 Western Conference Finals.

Having been on teams that made the playoffs in 13 of his 15 seasons, while playing in 11 of those (missed other two due to injury), Kerr is one of only 26 players in NBA history to win five championships, earning three rings with Chicago and two with San Antonio. A key reserve for Chicago during the team's three-peat championship run from 1996-98, Kerr famously hit the game-winning, title-clinching shot in Game 6 of the 1997 NBA Finals. He won his fourth consecutive championship in 1999 with the San Antonio Spurs to become one of only two non-Boston Celtics to win four-straight NBA titles (joining Frank Saul, 1951-54). His fifth ring came in his second stint with the Spurs during his final NBA campaign in 2002-03.

The NBA's all-time three-point percentage leader, having converted on 45.4 percent (726-of-1599) of his attempts from long range, Kerr amassed career averages of 6.0 points, 1.8 assists and 1.2 rebounds in 910 regular-season games with the Phoenix Suns, Cleveland Cavaliers, Orlando Magic, Chicago Bulls, San Antonio Spurs (twice) and Portland Trail Blazers.

Kerr was originally selected by the Phoenix Suns in the second round (50th overall) of the 1988 NBA Draft out of the University of Arizona, where he capped his collegiate career as a senior in 1988 by helping lead the Wildcats to their first Final Four appearance. An All-Pac 10 guard in both 1986 and 1988, he remains the school's career leader in three-point field goal percentage (57.3 percent).

During his playing career, Kerr played for some of the most successful coaches in the history of the game, including Phil Jackson, Popovich, Lenny Wilkens, Cotton Fitzsimmons and Lute Olson. Born in Beirut, Lebanon, and raised in Pacific Palisades, Calif., Kerr was a ballboy in 1978 and 1979 at UCLA, where his late father, Malcolm, was a professor.

As a broadcaster, Kerr has served two different four-year stints as a game analyst on TNT's award-winning NBA coverage. In addition to a full slate of regular-season games, he also worked TNT's marquee events, including the NBA All-Star Game, playoffs and conference finals. During his most recent stint in broadcasting, beginning in 2010, Kerr also served as an analyst for NCAA Tournament and Final Four coverage on Turner Sports and CBS.

Kerr earned a degree in general studies from Arizona with an emphasis in history, sociology and English in 1988. He is an advocate for commonsense gun safety laws, supporting such organizations as the Brady campaign, Sandy Hook Promise, March For Our Lives, and Giffords. Kerr also helps fundraise for Oakland Promise, an initiative launched by Mayor Libby Schaaf and the Oakland Unified School District in 2016 that aims to triple the number of Oakland high school graduates who complete college by the year 2024. In October 2014, Steve and Margot Kerr committed $1 million to the University of Arizona to assist with the McKale Memorial Center renovation and future academic facility enhancements.

Born on September 27, 1965, Steve and his wife, Margot, have two sons, Nicholas and Matthew, and one daughter, Madeleine. Nick received his degree from the University of San Diego in 2015 and completed his graduate studies at the University of California, Berkeley, where he played as a walk-on for the Bears' basketball team for one season. Nick is an assistant coach for the Warriors G League affiliate Santa Cruz Warriors, after serving as an assistant video coordinator for Golden State in 2020-21. SEVEN-TIME CHAMPS

The Warriors captured their seventh NBA championship in franchise history and fourth in the last eight years with a 4-2 series win over Boston. Golden State has now won NBA titles in 1947, 1956, 1975, 2015, 2017, 2018 and 2022, the third-most in NBA history trailing only the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers (17 championships each). The Warriors are the first Bay Area professional sports franchise to win four championships in an eight-year span, and just the third NBA team - Celtics (four times), Lakers (three times) and Bulls (once) - and the 15th major sports organization (NBA, NFL, MLB, NHL) to win four titles in an eight-year stretch.

4X CHAMPS CURRY, GREEN, IGUODALA & THOMPSON

Stephen Curry, Klay Thompson, Draymond Green and Andre Iguodala are now among the 40 players that have won at least four NBA championships (2015, 2017, 2018, 2022). A total of 4,710 players have played a game in league history, and the 40 players with four titles make up just 0.8 percent of those to ever play the game. The Warriors quartet become only the second four-player group to combine for four NBA championships in the last 50 years (70th all-time), joining Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Michael Cooper, Magic Johnson and Kurt Rambis (1982, 1985, 1987, 1988).

CURRY FLURRY IN 2021-22

In the 2021-22 season, Stephen Curry became the league's all-time career leader in 3-pointers made, won his first career All-Star Game MVP, and capped off his 13th NBA season with his fourth NBA championship and his first NBA Finals MVP. According to the Elias Sports Bureau, Curry became the sixth NBA player to win the NBA All-Star Game MVP and NBA Finals MVP in NBA history, joining Michael Jordan (twice), Willis Reed, Shaquille O'Neal, Kobe Bryant and Giannis Antetokounmpo.

ADD FINALS MVP TO THE RESUME

Stephen Curry was named the Bill Russell NBA Finals Most Valuable Player after averaging 31.2 points (career-best in any Finals), 6.0 rebounds, 5.0 assists and 2.00 steals in 37.5 minutes per game in the 2022 NBA Finals vs. Boston. Curry became the sixth player in NBA history with four NBA titles, two regular season MVPs and an NBA Finals MVP, joining Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Michael Jordan, LeBron James, Magic Johnson and Tim Duncan. Curry became the first player in NBA history to average at least 30 points, five rebounds, five assists and five 3-pointers per game in a Finals since the introduction of the 3-point shot in 1979-80. Additionally, his 31 3-pointers were the most in a six-game series in the NBA Finals, surpassing his previous record of 25 in 2015. It was one shy of his record in any Finals series (32 in 2016). Curry became the first player in NBA history to make at least 150 career 3-pointers in the Finals (now has 152 career Finals threes).

43 IN THE FINALS

In Game 4 at Boston on June 10, Stephen Curry scored 43 points in a series-tying win, his third-highest scoring total in a playoff game in his career. In Warriors playoff franchise history, Curry ranks third for the most 40-point games, trailing only Wilt Chamberlain (10) and Rick Barry (eight). There are only three Warriors to ever score at least 40 points in a Finals game - Barry (three times), Curry (twice), Kevin Durant (once).

PLAYOFF ROAD WARRIORS

The Warriors have won at least one road game in each of the last 27 playoff series, an NBA record streak that began with a road victory in Denver in the First Round of the 2013 NBA Playoffs (131-117 on April 23, 2013). The streak has coincided with the tenures of Stephen Curry, Draymond Green and Klay Thompson. According to the Elias Sports Bureau, Green (27), Thompson (27) and Curry (26) are the only players to win at least one road game in every playoff series they've played in (minimum 20). Curry missed the 2018 First Round series vs. San Antonio.

In his third season with the Warriors, Andrew Wiggins made his first All-Star appearance and won his first NBA championship, becoming the 24th player in NBA history to make his first All-Star appearance and win the NBA title in the same season. Starting in all 22 playoff games, Wiggins averaged 16.5 points (fourth-highest on team), 7.5 rebounds (second-highest on team), 1.8 assists, 1.00 steals, team-leading 1.05 blocks in 34.9 minutes per game. IRON LOON

Warriors center Kevon Looney played in a combined 104 games - all 82 regular season games and all 22 playoff games for the Warriors - the most by any player in the NBA this season. Looney and Mavericks center Dwight Powell were the only two players this season to appear in at least 100 games. This is the second time in Looney's career that he's played in at least 100 total games, joining Draymond Green as the only Warriors players to ever have multiple 100-game seasons for the Warriors. WELCOME BACK KLAY

On January 9, 2022 vs. Cleveland, Klay Thompson returned to the lineup for the first time since June 13, 2019 (Game 6 of the 2019 NBA Finals). It had been 941 days since the three-time NBA champion and five-time NBA All-Star had played. During that span, Thompson missed 175 regular season games. Thompson is the only player in NBA history with at least four All-Star nods to miss over 170 consecutive regular season games due to injury before returning to play for the same team. Previously, New York's Bernard King missed 169 games--the last 11 games of the 1984-85 season, all 82 in 1985-86, and the first 76 of the 1986-87 season--before returning for the Knicks.

CURRY NAMED PLAYER OF THE MONTH

Stephen Curry was named Western Conference Player of the Month for games played in October and November. It marked Curry's third-straight Player of the Month award dating back to 2020-21, giving him 10 in his career. The award marked the 14th time a Warrior earned the monthly recognition. During October and November Curry helped guide the Warriors to an NBA-best-tying 18-3 record, averaging 27.8 points to go with 5.7 rebounds, 6.6 assists and 1.80 steals in 34.3 minutes per game.

TEENAGE STARTERS

On March 23 at Miami, the Warriors started rookies Jonathan Kuminga and Moses Moody, both 19 years old. According to the Elias Sports Bureau, it marked the second time in Warriors history that multiple teenagers started a game for the franchise since 1970-71, the first season starters were officially tracked. The first time came last season on March 4, 2021 at Phoenix, when James Wiseman and Nico Mannion were named starters.

HERE'S JONATHAN

Among the rookie leaders, Warriors forward Jonathan Kuminga ranked second in field goal percentage (.513) and 16th in scoring (9.3 ppg). In games in which he logged at least 20 minutes, Kuminga scored in double figures in 28 of the 30 appearances (eight starts) while averaging 15.9 points (.563 FG%) and 4.9 rebounds in 26.5 minutes per game.

MOSES MOODY'S CAREER SCORING NIGHT

On March 7 at Denver, Moses Moody scored career-high 30 points to become the 25th Warriors rookie to ever score 30 points in a game, and the first since Eric Paschall did so twice during the 2019-20 season (Nov. 4 and Nov. 17, 2019). He attempted 12 3-pointers, matching a Warriors rookie record set by Jordan Poole on Nov. 13, 2019 at the Lakers. Moody's 22 first-half points were the most by a Warriors rookie since Stephen Curry scored 26 in the second half on April 14, 2010 at Portland.

ANOTHER HISTORIC WARRIORS QUARTER

On October 21 vs. the Clippers, Stephen Curry scored 25 points in the first quarter, making all nine of his field goal attempts, including all five of his 3-point field goal attempts and both free throw attempts. Since 1997-98 (when play-by-play began being recorded), a player scoring at least 25 points, hitting five-or-more 3-pointers while having a perfect shooting effort from the field in a single quarter has been done just three times, all by members of the Warriors.

CURRY & WIGGINS NAMED ALL-STAR STARTERS

Stephen Curry and Andrew Wiggins were both named starters in the 71st NBA All-Star Game. Curry made his eighth All-Star Game appearance, surpassing Rick Barry's franchise record of seven All-Star starts, and trailing only Paul Arizin (10 appearances) for most All-Star selections in Warriors history. Wiggins was named a starter in his first All-Star appearance. The Warriors have had multiple All-Star starters in five of the past eight seasons.

According to the Elias Sports Bureau research, Wiggins is the third first-time All-Star to be named a starter in his eighth season or later (Bob Boozer in his eighth season in 1967-68; Kyle Lowry in his ninth season in 2014-15). He is the 40th different No. 1 overall pick in the modern draft era (since 1966) to make an All-Star team in his career, but the first of those not to make it until his eighth season or later.

In unveiling their new logo on June 17, 2010, the Golden State Warriors drew on the franchise's rich Bay Area history, creating a modern version of the team's most popular logos and uniforms from years gone by to simultaneously salute the team's past and serve as a link to the exciting prospects of the organization's future. Prior to the 2019-20 season, the logo was updated with a more accurate portrayal of the Bay Bridge and custom font.

A silhouette of the Eastern Span of the Bay Bridge is the focal point of the team's primary logo design. This Bay Bridge rendering as the centerpiece of the team's new look is a direct spin-off of "The City" jersey, which the club wore from 1966-71. To this day, "The City" logo remains one of the most popular emblems in the history of professional sports.

The depiction of the Bay Bridge also serves as the link between the Warriors' original Bay Area home in San Francisco, where the team arrived from Philadelphia 50 years ago returns for the first time since 1971, and its former home in Oakland, where the team played its home games at Oracle Arena (formerly the Oakland Coliseum Arena) for 47 of the last 48 seasons (the Warriors spent one year in San Jose in 1996-97).

The colors of the new logo and branding elements are Warriors Royal Blue and California Golden Yellow. These two colors have been the most prevalent in the team's Bay Area uniform history, appearing as the dominant scheme in four of the last five decades since the team's arrival on the West Coast in 1962.

The current Warriors logo, which was the team's first major branding and identity change since 1997, helped mark the beginning of a new era for one of the NBA's longest tenured franchises. A new era that began, appropriately enough, with a tip of the cap to the team's past.

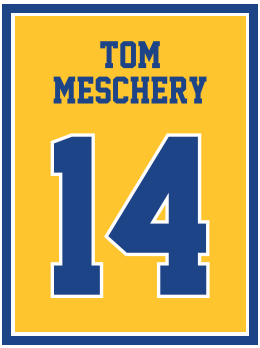
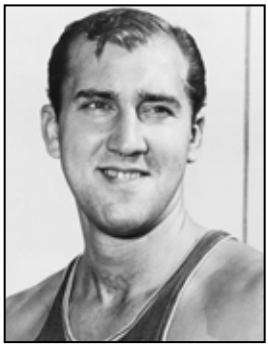
TIM HARDAWAY, 2022 HOF INDUCTEE

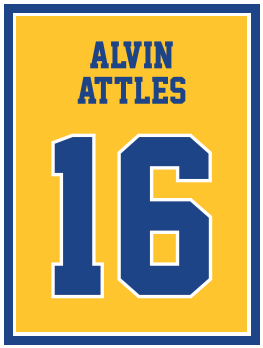
RUN TMC (TIM HARDAWAY '22, MITCH RICHMOND '14, CHRIS MULLIN '11) REUNITED IN THE BASKETBALL HALL OF FAME

Wilt Chamberlain averaged 41.5 points and 25.1 rebounds in five seasons with the Philadelphia and San Francisco Warriors. Chamberlain was named both Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player in 1959-60 and earned four MVP awards over the course of his career. He owns numerous franchise and NBA records, including most points (100) and rebounds (55) in a game, and is the only player ever to average over 50 points per game in a single season (50.4 in 1961-62). He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1979 and his number was retired by the Warriors on December 29, 1999.

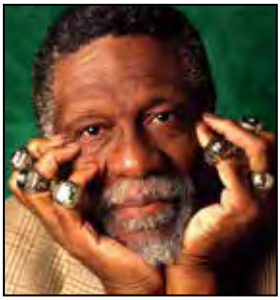




Tom Meschery played six of his 10 NBA seasons with the Philadelphia and San Francisco Warriors, averaging 12.9 points and 8.5 rebounds per game with the team. The 1963 NBA All-Star also appeared in 39 playoff games with the Warriors, averaging 16.3 points. His interest in poetry and literature earned him the nickname of "Renaissance Man" among his Warriors teammates, but his ferociousness and intensity on the court made him known by others as "The Mad Russian." He was the first Warrior to have his number retired on October 13, 1967.



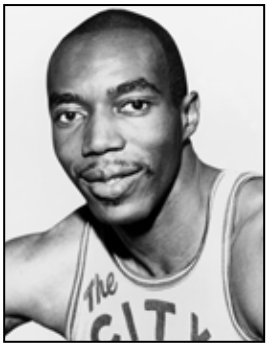
Alvin Attles joined the Philadelphia Warriors in 1960 as the club's fifth-round draft choice and has been affiliated with the franchise ever since, a span of 60 years that represents the longest stint with a single franchise in NBA history. In 11 seasons as a player, he averaged 8.9 points over 711 career games. He is the franchise leader in coaching victories with 557 and guided the Warriors to the 1975 NBA Championship during his 13-year run as the team's head coach. Attles was honored by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame with the John W. Bunn Lifetime Achievement Award in 2014 and later inducted into the Hall of Fame as a contributor in 2019. His number was retired on February 10, 1977.



Bill Russell (February 12, 1934 - July 31, 2022)
The National Basketball Association (NBA) and National Basketball Players Association (NBPA) that they will honor the life and legacy of 11-time NBA champion and civil rights pioneer Bill Russell by permanently retiring his uniform number, 6, throughout the league. The iconic Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Famer will be the first player to have his number retired across the NBA. Russell's jersey number, which he wore for his entire 13-season career from 1956-69, will not be issued again by any NBA team to any player. Players who currently wear No. 6 will be grandfathered. Regarded as the ultimate winner and model teammate, Russell transformed the game with his dominant defense and graceful athleticism at the center position. He won a record 11 NBA championships in 13 seasons, which followed back-to-back national championships at the University of San Francisco (1955 and 1956) and a gold medal with the U.S. Olympic Men's Basketball Team (1956). Russell, who led Boston to eight consecutive NBA championships from 1959-66, was so synonymous with success that the NBA Finals Most Valuable Player Award was named for him in 2009.

Chris Mullin averaged 20.1 points over 13 seasons with the Warriors, appearing in more games (807) and recording more steals (1,360) than any player in franchise history. The five-time NBA All-Star averaged 26.5 points in 1988-89, the first of five consecutive campaigns in which he averaged 25-plus points. Mullin, alongside Tim Hardaway and Mitch Richmond, anchored the high-scoring trio known as Run TMC, which spent two seasons together from 1989-91. He was also a member of the fabled Dream Team in 1992, capturing one of his two Olympic gold medals. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2011 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 19, 2012.

Rick Barry averaged 25.6 points during his eight years with the Warriors, earning NBA All-Star accolades in each of those seasons. The 1966 NBA Rookie of the Year earned All-NBA honors six times with the club and led the league in scoring with 35.6 points per game in 1966-67. He averaged 26.9 points in 66 playoff games and was named NBA Finals MVP in Golden State's 4-0 sweep of the Washington Bullets in the 1975 NBA Finals. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1987 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 18, 1988.



Nate Thurmond averaged 17.4 points and 16.9 rebounds during his 11 seasons with the Warriors, making seven All-Star Game appearances. Named to the NBA All-Defensive Team five times with the Warriors, Thurmond ranks as the team's all-time leader in minutes played (30,735) and total rebounds (12,771). "Big Nate" appeared in an additional 54 postseason games with the Warriors, averaging 15.4 points and 16.6 rebounds in those contests. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1985 and his number was retired by the Warriors on March 8, 1978.

His myriad accomplishments included five NBA Most Valuable Player awards, 12 NBA All-Star selections and 11 All-NBA Team honors. Russell was named to all four NBA anniversary teams (25th, 35th, 50th and 75th) and inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1975. A four-time NBA rebounding champion, he ranks second in league history in total rebounds (21,620) and rebounds per game (22.5) in the regular season. The Celtics retired his No. 6 jersey in 1972.

Russell's impact on the NBA extended far beyond his playing achievements. In 1966, he was hired by the Celtics as the first Black head coach in the history of the NBA and major U.S. professional sports. As a player-head coach, he guided Boston to back-to-back NBA championships in 1968 and 1969.

During and after his extraordinary basketball career, Russell passionately advocated for the values of equality, respect and inclusion. He marched for civil rights with Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and was steadfast in his belief that all people should be treated with dignity. Russell was awarded the 2010 Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor, for his athletic feats and lifelong commitment to social justice.

June 16, 2015 (Cleveland) - The Warriors won the 2014-15 NBA Championship with the 105-97 Game 6 victory in Cleveland, capturing the fourth championship in franchise history and first in 40 years (1974-75 season). Warriors Head Coach Steve Kerr became the first coach to lead his team to a title in his first season at the helm since Pat Riley led the Los Angeles Lakers to a championship in 1981-82. Andre Iguodala was named the NBA Finals MVP with averages of 16.3 points, 5.8 rebounds, 4.0 assists and 1.33 steals in 37.0 minutes, including a team-high-tying and 2015 postseason-high 25 points in Game 6. Iguodala, who joined Rick Barry (1975) as the only Finals MVPs in franchise history, is the first Finals MVP in NBA history to win the award without having started a regular season game that season. Stephen Curry scored a team-high-tying 25 points, finishing with a then-NBA-record 98 threes in the postseason. Draymond Green tallied 16 points, 11 rebounds and a then-playoff-career-high 10 assists, the first triple-double by a Warrior in the postseason since Guy Rodgers in 1962 (first triple-double ever by a Warrior in The Finals).

June 16, 2022 (Boston) - Stephen Curry earned his first Bill Russell NBA Finals Most Valuable Player award after recording a game-high-tying 34 points, seven rebounds and seven assists to lead the Warriors to the franchise's seventh championship and fourth in the last eight years with a 103-90 win over the Celtics at TD Garden. Offensively, the Warriors overcame an early 12-point deficit and used a 21-0 run in the first half and kept the Celtics at bay for most the game. Defensively, Golden State capitalized on 23 Celtics turnovers, recycling them into 20 points. Andrew Wiggins tallied 18 points, six rebounds, five assists, four steals and three blocks. Jordan Poole contributed 15 points off the bench. Draymond Green recorded 12 points, a team-high 12 rebounds, a team-high eight assists, two steals and two blocks. Klay Thompson added 12 points. Jalyen Brown scored a game-high-tying 34 points. Al Horford recorded a double-double with 19 points and game-high 14 rebounds. Jayson Tatum scored 13 points and Robert Williams had 10 points.

The Golden State Warriors became the first team in NBA history to win five consecutive conference titles (2014-2019) and have earned seven Western Conference Championships in their franchise history since the NBA began using the conference format in 1970-71. The Warriors became only the second team to earn five straight trips to the Western Conference Finals, joining the Los Angeles Lakers (eight straight, 1982-1989). Since 1970-71, only five franchises - Warriors, Lakers, Celtics, Bulls and Pistons - have made at least five-straight appearances in the conference finals. Nine times the Warriors have advanced to the conference finals, winning seven of those series.

The Golden State Warriors have captured the Pacific Division title seven times since the NBA began using the current divisional format in 1970-71, second only to the Los Angeles Lakers' 23 divisional titles. The Warriors claimed the division crown in five straight seasons, 2014-15 to 2018-19.

Warriors Head Coach Steve Kerr joins Pat Riley as the only coaches to win division titles in each of their first five seasons as a head coach, according to the Elias Sports Bureau. Among the four major professional sports leagues, the Warriors are the first Bay Area team to earn five consecutive division crowns since the San Francisco 49ers won five-straight NFC West titles from 1986-1990. The Warriors join the Lakers as the only teams to win the Pacific Division in five consecutive seasons, which the Lakers last accomplished from 2007-08 to 2011-12.

STEPHEN CURRY - INAUGURAL MAGIC JOHNSON WESTERN CONFERENCE FINALS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER (2022)

Before moving West and staking claim in the Bay Area, the Warriors called Philadelphia their home for 16 memorable years.

From the inception of the Basketball Association of America (the predecessor to the National Basketball Association) in 1946, to the conclusion of the 1961-62 season, the Philadelphia Warriors dazzled their fans and produced legendary players like Wilt Chamberlain, Joseph Fulks, Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston en route to amassing a record of 558-545 and capturing two NBA championships.

Expanding on the National Basketball League of the 1930's and 40's, The Basketball Association of America began play in November 1946 and consisted of 11 teams and two divisions. The Philadelphia Warriors took residence in the Eastern Division, and under the guidance of head coach Eddie Gottlieb wasted no time in claiming the first ever title, beating the Chicago Stags in the championship series (4-1). The inaugural Warriors were led by "Jumping" Joe Fulks, who followed up his league-leading scoring average (23.2) in the 60-game regular season by averaging 22.2 points in the playoffs, including a game-high 37 points in Game 1 of The Finals.

Philadelphia Warriors forward Paul Arizin (#11) shoots during the 1956 NBA Finals.

The league prospered and grew to 17 teams and was renamed the National Basketball Association prior to the 1949-50 season. The Warriors claimed their second title in 1956, beating the Fort Wayne Pistons in a five-game series (4-1). In doing so, they completed one of the most dramatic turnarounds in NBA history, going from last place in the Eastern Division in 1954-55 to the penthouse one year later. Former Warriors player George Senesky, in his first full season as head coach, directed a well-balanced squad to an NBA-best 45-27 record, as every member of the starting five averaged double-figure scoring. Leading the way were NBA All-Stars Arizin (24.2 points and 7.4 rebounds) and Neil Johnston (22.1 points, a league-leading .457 field goal percentage and 12.5 rebounds). In the championship series against Fort Wayne, Arizin averaged 29.0 points. In the deciding fifth game, Joseph Graboski led the way with a team-high 29 points.

In the 1959 NBA Draft, the Warriors chose Philadelphia native Wilt Chamberlain out of Kansas University as a territorial selection. The 7-1, 275-pound giant with tremendous power and grace would soon change the face of the game forever. As a rookie, Chamberlain averaged 37.6 points and 27.0 rebounds a game, shattering previous league highs. His powerful slam dunks and unprecedented statistics drew a record amount of fans not yet seen by the young league. Chamberlain coasted to the league's Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player awards. With Arizin, Woody Sauldsberry, Tom Gola and Guy Rodgers surrounding the superstar center, rookie Head Coach Neil Johnston and the Warriors cruised into the Eastern Division Finals, where they fell to the powerhouse Boston Celtics. This series gave birth to one of the NBA's greatest rivalries, the clash of Chamberlain versus Bill Russell.

During the 1960-61 season, Chamberlain's numbers and reputation continued to grow, drawing huge crowds wherever the Warriors traveled. He averaged 38.4 points and hauled in 27.2 rebounds during this memorable season. The Warriors added a gritty, hard-nosed rookie guard by the name of Alvin Attles to the squad and returned to the playoffs only to be knocked off by the Syracuse Nationals.

The following season would be a record-setting year for "Wilt the Stilt." His 50.4 scoring average and 4,029 total points are records that have yet to be challenged. Chamberlain's season was highlighted by a perfromance in Hershey, Pa. on March 2, 1962, when he scored an incredible 100 points in a game against the New York Knicks.

Riding the backs of Chamberlain, Arizin, Attles and rookie Tom Meschery, the Warriors finished with a 49-31 record and met the Celtics again in the Eastern Division Finals. In a seven-game battle that saw Chamberlain swarmed by Russell and Celtic double and triple-teams, the Warriors lost (109-107) in Game 7. It would be the team's last game as the Philadelphia Warriors.

NOTES

- Golden State's 48-34 record was the best for a non-playoff team since the NBA instituted the 16-team format in 1983-84.
- The 48 wins were the team's most since 1993-94 and third most in the previous 32 seasons and the 21-20 road record marked the team's second most road victories in the previous 33 seasons.
- Warriors led the NBA in scoring, averaging 111.0 points per contest, marking the fifth time team has paced the league since moving West in 1962 and the first time since 1991-92.
- Baron Davis (21.8 ppg), Monta Ellis (20.2 ppg) and Stephen Jackson (20.1 ppg) became the first NBA trio to all average more than 20 points since Chris Mullin, Mitch Richmond and Tim Hardaway did so for Golden State in 1990-91.
- Warriors established an all-time single-season franchise record in attendance, averaging 19,631 fans per game (capacity 19,596) and sold out 32 of 41 home games.

NOTES

- Golden State played 65 games before the NBA postponed the regular season on March 11, 2020 due to the pandemic... The season restarted in Orlando with 22 teams as the Warriors were among the eight teams that did not participate (Atlanta, Charlotte, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Minnesota, New York).
- On October 24, 2020, the Warriors hosted the Los Angeles Clippers at Chase Center, playing their first regular season game in San Francisco since January 29, 1971 (San Francisco Civic Auditorium).
- The Warriors' streak of consecutive playoff berths ended at a franchise-record seven, and their streak NBA Finals appearances ended at five.
- Rookie forward Eric Paschall was named to the 2020 NBA All-Rookie First Team, becoming the latest draft selection by the Warriors to garner All-Rookie honors, passing Marc Jackson, who was selected 38th overall in 2000.
- The Warriors acquired forward Andrew Wiggins along with a 2021 first-round draft pick (top three protected) and a 2021 second-round draft pick in exchange from the Minnesota Timberwolves for Jacob Evans, D'Angelo Russell and Omari Spellman (February 6, 2020)... Wiggins became the ninth former first overall pick to appear in a game for the Warriors since 1966.
- The Warriors 296 player games missed due to injury or illness... Stephen Curry missed 60 games, the most he has ever missed in a single season in his career (58 due to a left hand fracture and two to influenza)... Draymond Green missed a career-high 22 games... Klay Thompson missed the entire season while rehabilitating his left ACL, an injury suffered in Game 6 of the 2019 NBA Finals.

Shortly after purchasing the Golden State Warriors in November of 2010, Co-Executive Chairman & CEO Joe Lacob and Co-Executive Chairman Peter Guber vowed to improve the team's development of young players. In an effort to help that process, the Warriors purchased the Dakota Wizards franchise of the NBA G League in the summer of 2011, forging a one-on-one relationship between the two clubs and giving the Warriors total control over the roster, coaching staff and business operations of the G League team.

In the summer of 2012, the Warriors announced their intention to move the G League team to Northern California and rebrand the club as the Santa Cruz Warriors. Having the team in close proximity to the parent club allows the Warriors to easily monitor their players who are on assignment in the G League, while also making it easier for players and staff to travel between the two clubs.

On October 10, 2012, the NBA G League officially approved the relocation of the club from Bismarck, ND, to Northern California for the 2012-13 campaign. In the matter of 78 days, the Warriors built Kaiser Permanente Arena, a 2,500-seat facility located in downtown Santa Cruz, and were ready to play their inaugural season in Surf City.

The team, which is celebrating its ninth season in Northern California, made an instant connection with the Santa Cruz and central coast communities, playing in front of a passionate fan base that has sold out 95 consecutive home games dating back to the 2015-16 season, the longest active streak among G League teams.

On the court, the Warriors advanced to the NBA G League Finals in each of their first three seasons and won the 2015 G League Championship. On the development side, Santa Cruz saw four players – Antonius Cleveland, Quinn Cook, Damion Lee and Georges Niang – earn GATORADE Call-Ups in 2017-18, bringing the franchise total to 13 players earning 34 Call-Ups. Santa Cruz earned the 2013-14 NBA G League "Development Champion" Award, which recognizes the G League team that best embodies the league's goals of developing NBA basketball talent via GATORADE Call-Ups and assignments.

In addition to player call-ups, front office and coaching staff members have moved from Santa Cruz to Golden State. Kent Lacob, who served as Santa Cruz's general manager for three seasons, was promoted to the Golden State Warriors director, team development in August 2019. Aaron Miles, who was Santa Cruz's head coach for two seasons, was named as a player development coach for the Golden State Warriors prior to the 2019-20 season. Most recently, former Head Coach Kris Weems and GM Ryan Atkinson were named Golden State Warriors player development coach and director, team development, respectively.

Off the court, the Santa Cruz Warriors earned the NBA G League Franchise of the Year award for their excellence in business operations during the 2017-18, 2020-21, and 2021-22 seasons. Santa Cruz was also named the "Business of the Year" by the Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce in 2016 for their contributions to building the economic vitality, prosperity and quality of life in Santa Cruz County.

WARRIORS NBA G LEAGUE ASSIGNMENT & CALL-UP HISTORY

NBA players in the first three years of their careers may be assigned to their NBA G League affiliate an unlimited number of times, according to the NBA Collective Bargaining Agreement. Additionally, players beyond the first three years of their NBA careers may be assigned to their NBA G League affiliate with their consent and the consent of the National Basketball Players Association. With the Warriors G League team located in close proximity to the parent club, players in recent years have been assigned to the G League not only for games, but also to get additional practice time.

The NBA's official minor league, the NBA G League prepares players, coaches, officials, trainers and front-office staff for the NBA while acting as the league's research and development laboratory. The league, which began in 2001-02, features 30 teams - 28 teams with direct affiliations with NBA franchises, for the 2022-23 season. During the 2021-22 season, 41 percent of players on NBA start-of-season rosters had NBA G League experience, with an all-time high of 45 percent on rosters the previous season.

WARRIORS COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

The Golden State Warriors Community Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Golden State Warriors, is committed to supporting educational equity for underserved Bay Area youth. Since its inception in 2012, the Foundation has delivered over $30 million in economic impact to support educational equity and youth development in the Bay Area. This includes their annual education grants to nonprofits in Alameda and San Francisco Counties, the season-long Hoops 4 Kids program (warriors.com/kids), Generation Thrive, basketball court renovations, and ticket donations

To date, the Foundation has rebuilt more than 90 public basketball courts around the Bay Area, helping to revitalize local communities with safe and clean places for families and youth to enjoy the game of basketball.

Finally, the Foundation has donated over 20,000 tickets to schools and nonprofits that serve low-income children, helping to share the joy and excitement of Warriors home games.

The Foundation is sustained by generous contributions from Warriors owners, players, partners, and fans.

The Warriors Community Foundation and Kaiser Permanente partnered in 2019 to create Generation Thrive – the first-of-its-kind nonprofit accelerator that supports Bay Area nonprofit organizations and schools through education and wellness programming. Generation Thrive hosts Warriors Community Foundation grantees, and Kaiser Permanente selected nonprofit organizations at the Golden State Warriors on-site facility in Oakland. An additional location will open in 2022 at Thrive City in San Francisco on the Golden State Warriors Chase Center campus.

Generation Thrive advances educational attainment, wellness, and equity for Bay Area youth by providing capacity building and collaboration opportunities for youth-serving nonprofits and educators and wellness programming for the youth they serve. Generation Thrive is focused on providing support in three key areas: educational equity, college and career readiness, and health and wellness. Generation Thrive provides programming that supports nonprofits and schools through capacity-building, collaboration, and coaching through a tiered, free membership model. The ultimate goal of Generation Thrive is to take care of the people who care for Bay Area youth so they can thrive without limitations based on race, class, gender, language, zip code, or citizenship status.

Since its launch in 2019, Generation Thrive has provided over 180 hours of free professional development and wellness programming for more than 2,500 Bay Area teachers, educators, and youth development specialists. In addition, Generation Thrive serves as the convener of quality development opportunities, from creating anti-racist and inclusive classrooms to emotional intelligence training to celebrating diverse cultures through various health and wellness sessions such as Mindfulness and West African dance classes.

In 2020, in partnership with CORO NorCal, the Generation Thrive Leadership Network graduated its inaugural cohort of 24 Bay Area emerging leaders in the nonprofit sector who are youth development specialists. Fellows participated in a rigorous three-month leadership development program. Throughout the program, fellows gained proficiency in Coro's six key leadership competencies: self-awareness, communication, critical thinking, inclusion, collaboration, and empowered professionalism. In 2021, Generation Thrive, in partnership with Accenture developed a brand-new leadership development program for Bay Area C-Suite nonprofit leaders called, Bridging the Bay.

Warriors Basketball Academy, powered by Rakuten, has evolved into one of the most impactful youth basketball programs in the NBA. A member of the Jr. NBA's Flagship Network, Warriors Basketball Academy has been deemed one of 18 best-in-class youth basketball organizations in the country that share the Jr. NBA's vision for how the game should be taught. Operating out of the Warriors former practice facility in Oakland, Warriors Basketball Academy made significant upgrades to provide improved skill development and training options for participants. The Warriors Basketball Facility in Oakland is the first NBA team-owned facility in the U.S. dedicated to youth basketball development.

In addition to programming at the Oakland facility, Warriors Basketball Academy continues to impact the Bay Area youth basketball landscape by facilitating longstanding programs, Warriors Basketball Camp and the Junior Warriors Basketball League, throughout the region.

Warriors Basketball Camp, powered by Rakuten, has attracted over 70,000 youth to participate in hundreds of sessions in over 30 cities around the Bay Area, plus a camp on Oahu, Hawaii. In addition to campers from throughout the U.S., the team has hosted youth from six different continents - Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, North America and South America. During the summer of 2022, Warriors Basketball Camp conducted in-person summer sessions registering over 3,500 youth from 26 different states and nine different countries including Canada, Germany, Israel, France, Mexico, Singapore, South Korea, Spain and the Netherlands. A handful of Warriors Basketball Camp alumni have gone on to play professionally both in the NBA and overseas. Former Warriors forward Juan Toscano-Anderson is the third former participant to play in the NBA, the first to have played for the Golden State Warriors and the first to win an NBA Championship.

This past summer, Warriors Basketball Camp conducted 36 in-person sessions at 22 Bay Area locations for youth ages 8-17. The schedule was highlighted by two outdoor sessions, in partnership with Invisalign, at Thrive City, the community gathering space surrounding Chase Center, and seven sessions at the team's Oakland facility that integrated Shoot 360 technology. The Overnight Camp also returned and featured NBA Champions - Juan Toscano-Anderson, Gary Payton II and Damion Lee. For the first time ever, this session was held at the Warriors Basketball Facility in Oakland.

The Junior Warriors Basketball League offers a unique basketball experience for Bay Area youth, ages 5-17. Through partnerships with local youth agencies, the Warriors aim to enhance existing leagues by providing special benefits for all participants, including reversible jerseys and shorts, headbands, certificates of participation and ticket options for Warriors home games. The league also offers a Coaches Clinic, featuring members of the Warriors coaching staff, for all volunteer coaches participating in the program. Over 200,000 Bay Area youth have been able to participate in the Junior Warriors Basketball League since its inception in 2000.

Warriors Basketball Facility in Oakland provides youth access to a year-round skill development and performance enhancement training space 7-days per week. The features of the facility include programs such as private training, skill development classes, and birthday workouts in addition to daily access via Shoot 360, the newly installed performance technology that allows participants the ability to test, train and track every component of their workout. Shooting cages allow participants to get instant performance analytics in real time via live shot charts showing shot arc, shot depth and left/right differential, while the skill cages provide interactive ball-handling. Passing simulators engage participants by tracking and grading their performance. The 2022-23 NBA season will mark Brandon Schneider's 21st season with the Warriors organization, his first as the team's president and chief operating officer. In this role, Schneider reports to Co-Executive Chairman & CEO Joe Lacob and Co-Executive Chairman Peter Guber, and oversees all business-related operations for the Warriors, including Chase Center and Thrive City, a privately financed sports and entertainment district in San Francisco's Mission Bay neighborhood that opened in September 2019. Schneider was promoted to his current role in April of 2021, following three years as the chief revenue officer.

In his three years as chief revenue officer, Schneider was responsible for strategic planning and execution related to all of the organization's sales and activation efforts at Chase Center, including tickets, suites, and corporate partnerships. He oversaw the team's digital and marketing teams as well as philanthropic efforts led by the community relations group and the Warriors Community Foundation of which he sits on the board. He managed the team's retail business both online and at Chase Center, and worked to create the best overall fan experience at Chase Center. Schneider also oversaw the Warriors' NBA G League team, the Santa Cruz Warriors. Prior to assuming chief revenue officer, Schneider served four seasons as senior vice president, business development: two seasons as group vice president, ticket sales and services; and three seasons as vice president, ticket sales and services. Schneider originally joined the Warriors in the summer of 2002 as a season ticket account executive before being promoted to ticket sales manager in June of 2004 and assistant director of ticket sales the following April.

Under Schneider's leadership, the Warriors' season ticket base has grown to a capped-out level of 12,000 seats and he spearheaded a successful renewal strategy that has resulted in a 90-percent plus season ticket renewal rate in each of the past six seasons. The Warriors launched a Priority Wait List for season tickets prior to the 2013-14 season, and that list has grown to more than 40,000 members who are committed to purchasing season tickets if/when they become available.

He pushed the organization to successfully adopt a dynamic ticket pricing model prior to the 2011-12 campaign and mirrored the innovative model on the suite level shortly thereafter. He led the Warrior's franchise-record 377-game-and-counting sellout streak by the end of the 2019-20 season, during which the Warriors received a league-leading five "best in industry" awards at the 2019 NBA Sales and Marketing Meetings.

During his tenure with the Warriors, the organization has been recognized with several prestigious awards, including being named "Franchise of the Decade" among all professional sports teams by Sports Business Journal in 2019. Additionally, the Warriors became the first professional team to win Sports Business Journal's "Sports Team of the Year" award on multiple occasions (2014 and 2016).

Schneider was named to Sports Business Journal's Power Players list in 2018 after being named to the publication's Forty Under 40 list in 2017. These honors followed Schneider's inclusion on Forty Under 40 lists by Diablo Magazine in 2015 and the San Francisco Business Times in 2016. Schneider was heavily involved with the completion of the Warriors' state-of-the-art new arena, Chase Center.

A year after its opening in September 2019, Chase Center was named Sports Facility of the Year by Sports Business Journal and has received numerous distinctions and industry awards.

A Bay Area native, Schneider graduated from UCLA in 2001 with a degree in business economics and an accounting minor. A die-hard fan of both the San Francisco 49ers and San Francisco Giants, and an owner of Los Angeles Football Club (LAFC), he lives in Hillsborough with his wife Amanda and their son Tommy.

ALVIN ATTLES

Warriors Legend & Community Ambassador

Alvin Attles, 85, is entering his 63rd year with the Warriors organization, the longest active streak with one team in the NBA. Twice honored by the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, Attles joined the Warriors in 1960 (Philadelphia Warriors' fifth-round draft choice) and has since been affiliated with the club in one capacity or another, building a unique relationship based on commitment, loyalty and dedication.

In September 2019, Attles was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame as part of the Class of 2019 in a ceremony in Springfield, Mass. Five years earlier in August 2014, Attles was honored with the John R. Bunn Lifetime Achievement Award. The award, which is the most prestigious of its kind presented by the Hall of Fame outside of Enshrinement, honors coaches, players and contributors whose outstanding accomplishments have impacted the game of basketball.

Attles is one of only six Warriors in franchise history to have his jersey retired (#16) – joining Rick Barry (#24), Wilt Chamberlain (#13), Tom Meschery (#14), Chris Mullin (#17), and Nate Thurmond (#42) – and remains one of the most publicly recognizable sports figures in the Bay Area.

His endless contributions locally as a player, executive and civic leader resulted in his much-deserved induction into the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame in 1993. In the summer of 2006, the newly refurbished outdoor basketball court at Lincoln Square Park in downtown Oakland was permanently renamed "Alvin Attles Court" in honor of the local legend and longtime Oakland resident. And, most recently, the Warriors announced that the team will present the Alvin Attles Volunteer Award to the team employee who goes above and beyond in their efforts to serve the Bay Area community as part of the organization's Helping Hands volunteer program.

In the latter stages of the 1969-70 NBA campaign, Attles was named head coach of the Warriors, replacing George Lee after 52 games (spent the final two years of his playing career [1969-70 and 1970-71] as a player/coach). His 30-game stint as head coach to end that season proved to be the start of the longest head coaching run in Warriors franchise history, a 13-plus year tenure which produced, among other highlights, the first NBA Championship in the club's West Coast history (1974-75).

During his 13-year coaching run, Attles guided the Warriors to six playoff berths, two division titles and amassed an overall record of 557-518, which ranks 25th on the NBA's all-time coach win list. One season after leading Golden State to the NBA title, he led the Warriors to a sparkling 59-23 record in 1975-76, which stood as the best mark in franchise history until 2014-15 and was the top record in the NBA that season. He also was named head coach of the Western Conference All-Star Team in both 1975 and 1976. Attles completed his coaching career in 1982-83 to become the Warriors GM, heading the team's basketball operations for three years.

One of the most aggressive and hard-nosed players in the league, Attles earned the unique nickname of "The Destroyer," which appropriately described his mentality on the floor. During his 11-year NBA career, he averaged 8.9 points, 3.5 rebounds and 3.5 assists in 711 regular-season games and currently ranks fifth on the Warriors all-time games played list (711). Furthermore, he was involved in one of the most memorable games in NBA history on March 2, 1962, when he and teammate Wilt Chamberlain combined for 117 points against the New York Knicks, the most ever by a pair of players in league annals. In that game, Attles tallied 17 points (8-8 FG, 1-1 FT), while Chamberlain netted an all-time NBA record 100 points. He retired following the 1970-71 campaign to focus strictly on coaching, eliminating his dual role as player/coach.

A 1960 graduate of North Carolina A&T, Attles earned his bachelor's degree in physical education and history. He later added a master's degree in curriculum and instruction to his credentials from the University of San Francisco in 1983. In 2015, Attles became the first player to have his number retired by North Carolina A&T when the school hung his #22 jersey from the rafters.

Al and his wife, Wilhelmina, reside in Oakland, Calif., and have two adult children, Alvin III and Erica.

TIM ROYE

Radio Play-by-Play Announcer

Tim Roye begins his 28th season of handling the play-by-play duties for all Warriors radio broadcasts on the club's flagship station, 95.7 The Game FM, and the Warriors Radio Network. He has called the action for the Warriors' four NBA Championships, a historic 73-win campaign and five-straight trips to the NBA Finals. Roye spoke for Warriors fans everywhere when, at the final buzzer of Game 6 of the 2015 NBA Finals in Cleveland, he famously proclaimed, "It's taken 40 years, but once again, the Bay's team is the best team! The Golden State Warriors have won the NBA title!"

In addition to his play-by-play duties, Roye also continues to host the Warriors' pregame and postgame shows. Overall, this is his 33rd year of working NBA play-by-play.
